

Margherita Moscardini

Biography

Margherita Moscardini was born in Donoratico, Livorno, in 1981. She lives and works in Donoratico, Castagneto Carducci (Italy). She studied Cultural Anthropology and attended the XIV CSAV, Fondazione Antonio Ratti in Como with Yona Friedman in 2008.

Her research investigates the relationship among urban, social, and natural processes and transformations. She is interested in abandoned areas. Her practice focuses on long-term processes and projects that consider the context as a means: how the architecture and the landscape (conceived as a set of geo-morphological characteristics of an area) work together, and how urban planning affect the local communities' behavior.

She has been guest artist of the MMCA Seoul and ISCP New York. She also won a fellowship at the Italian Academy for advanced Studies at Columbia University in New York. She also won the first edition of Pinacoteca Giovanni e Marella Agnelli Prize in 2007, creating a permanent work in the district prison Le Vallette in Turin.

Moscardini's works has been exhibited at IIC in Istanbul, Song Eun Art Space Seoul, MAXXI Foundation in Rome, and Palazzo Reale in Milan.
